

United States' Military Academy at West Point Embraced the New Year with Three, New LED Electronic Displays

Chestnut Ridge, NY (February 2010)- The United States' Military Academy at West Point has completed the installation of a project designed by Millennium Visual Systems of Chestnut Ridge, NY. Three LED Electronic Programmable Displays were installed at each of the three primary entrances to the base. Each display is incorporated into a structure that matches the surrounding granite and brick buildings that are each over one hundred years old.

Millennium's team worked with the Military Academy's Public Relations staff to create a project that would enhance base security while increasing the ability to communicate effectively to base personnel, residents and visitors.
